

OHIO SAVES OVER 9 MILLIONS IN 1931

REPORT IS DISCLOSED BY BEVIS

$9,646,333 Is Actual Saving In First Year Under Governor White

FIGURES REPORTED

$79,242,937 Required To Operate State

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 8.—State governmental operating expenses were reduced $9,646,333 in 1931. Finance Director Howard Bevis informed Governor George White today in a report of the first year of the governor's economy program.

FIGURES GIVEN

"Total operating expenses for 1930 were $88,889,270. For 1931 they were cut to $79,242,937," Bevis said.

"During 1931 a total of $6,568,628 was paid out on debts left by the former administration. There remains a balance of $540,885 on these debts to be paid in 1932."

The highway department alone reduced its expense approximately $10,000,000, according to the report. Inasmuch as the figure was greater than the total said to have been saved by all departments, it was believed that increases were necessary in some few branches of government.

"Although more miles of permanent highways were built during 1931, the cost of highway construction, costs were reduced $5,431,238 and highway maintenance costs were cut $4,995,628 in 1931," the finance director's report said.

ECONOMY SHOWN

Economies in the state welfare department under the direction of Welfare Director John McSweeney resulted in a saving of $1,529,537. The agriculture department saved $381,807.

Much of the state's saving was effected in wages and salaries, as follows:

Commerce, $101,532. Agriculture, $72,535. Finance, $38,698. Public works, $33,958. Conservation, $24,074. Health, $30,534. State library, $27,704. Probation, $21,033. Educational administration, $24,258. Film censorship, $5,889. Governor's office and mansion, $3,760.

Total extraordinary expenditures paid in 1931 and incurred by reasons of conditions that did not exist in 1930 were $950,032, and includes expenses of a legislative session, sundry claims, drought relief, relief to needy school children, and increases to weak school districts.

KILLER AWAITS 'DEATH MARCH'

Gust Tangles, 37, of Youngstown, Places His Last Hope With Governor

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 8.—While Gust Tangles, 37, of Youngstown, convicted slayer of patrolman Forrest Good of Akron, paced nervously up and down in the "cells" in front of the "death row," awaiting word from the governor's office which will decide his fate, preparations went forward at the Ohio State penitentiary for the electrocution tonight.

Governor George White was to consider an application for clemency today, recommended by Andrew Nickas, of Canton, counsel for the condemned man. Nickas, who went before the Ohio Board of Pardons yesterday, claimed he has a new witness who allegedly said the shots that killed Good were fired from an automobile that drew up before the policeman's car a minute before Tangles and his companion abandoned an automobile they had stolen.

Funeral arrangements have not been completed.

LENZ CUTS SCORE

NEW YORK, Jan. 8.—Ely Culbertson may win his much-publicized match against Sidney Lenz by nothing more than the proverbial skin of his teeth.

The tournament goes into its final session tonight with Culbertson only 8,770 points ahead. Only a few days ago he held a commanding lead in excess of 20,000 points and to all intents and purposes it was all over but the shouting.

FRANK SMITH IS IDENTIFIED

Miss Sarah Kidney, invalid sister of John Kidney, slain on Dec. 10, identified Frank Smith, colored, as one of two men she saw walking past her farm home last October when Smith with the other negroes held in the case were taken before the aged woman Thursday afternoon.

She said the two men were looking over the property when she observed them.

JAPAN WILL CONTINUE POLICY IN MANCHURIA

TOKYO, Jan. 8.—Japan will not change her Manchurian policy when she receives the American note calling her attention to the Kellogg pact and the nine-power pact, it was indicated today.

She will receive the protest calmly, and will give it the most careful consideration. She will not alter her course, however, in cleaning up bandits in southern Manchuria as she has been doing since Sept. 18, it was predicted.

A foreign office spokesman told International News Service that the note had not been received, and that his government possessed only unofficial press reports of its contents and of the possible action of France and Great Britain in adding their protests.

However, he indicated that his government felt there was little cause for a modification of Japan's program in Manchuria, and that it probably would reply to other interested powers as it has in the past, namely, pointing out that the present conditions in Manchuria were forced on Japan, and that, no matter what she was doing there, she was not carrying on war.

In view of the last point, Japan was expected to point out to the signatories of the Kellogg peace pact that its invocation was "unreasonable" at this time.

LONDON, Jan. 8.—Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson's note invoking the nine power pact in the Manchurian dispute was received by the British government late this afternoon. The foreign office immediately took the communication under advisement.

TOKYO, Jan. 8.—The Seiyukai party cabinet resigned today a few hours after an attempt was made upon the life of Emperor Hirohito.

The resignation conformed to the usual Japanese custom following an attempt to assassinate the ruler. The emperor was not harmed in the assassination plot. A bomb was hurled at him as he was riding in the imperial coach during a public parade and exploded when it struck in front of his carriage.

LONDON, Jan. 8.—A downward trend, attributed to nervousness over the outcome of the American note to Japan on the Manchurian situation, marked the opening hours of trading on the London Exchange today.

Brothers Didn't Shoot Reporter Says "Squealer"

CHICAGO, Jan. 8.—The electric chair today at last claimed Frank (The Squealer) Bell a few minutes after he had firmly reiterated his belief that Leo V. Brothers is innocent of the assassination of Alfred Lingie, racketeer reporter.

Chicago's most reprieved killer walked to his death in Cook-co. jail shortly after midnight, leaving behind a letter in which he confessed participation in the sensational gang killing of the reporter and again insisted that Brothers had no part in the slaying.

Brothers is under a prison sentence for the murder of Lingie in the summer of 1930.

Bell paid the supreme penalty today for the murder of Cris Patras, cafe manager, during a hold-up, twice before he had been snatched from the shadow of the electric chair by last-minute reprieves. Not until the march to the death chamber began did the condemned man abandon hope that a third stay would come to rescue him again.

REV. EICHINGER TO DELIVER ADDRESS

The union week of prayer services at the Presbyterian church Thursday night drew one of the best congregations of the week. The sermon was preached by the Rev. L. C. The services tonight will be in St. Philip's Episcopal church with the Rev. C. H. Eichinger as preacher.

DEPUTY SLAIN IN HARLAN CO.

Eight in Year is Victim of Miner's Gun; Brothers Are Jailed

HARLAN, Ky., Jan. 8.—Flaming guns roared again in troubled Harlan-co and as a result another deputy sheriff died in a year, lay dead today, and two coal miners were in jail.

The slain officer was Henderson Ramsey, 45, deputy sheriff stationed at Alva, Ky., about ten miles southwest of here. The shooting occurred near Path Fork, in the vicinity of Insull, Ky., where the mining camp of the Southern Mining company is located, last night.

The fatal shot was fired by Nathan Howard, coalminer, who with his brother, Benny Howard, were in the county jail here today. Two deputies sent to Insull by Sheriff John Henry Blair, brought the Howard brothers here during the night.

Funeral services for David H. Squires, well known Ashville resident, who died at his winter home in Sarasota, Fla., this week, will be held at his home in Ashville, Saturday, at 2 p. m., with Rev. S. V. Newton, pastor of the First Baptist church, officiating. Interment will be in Reber Hill mausoleum by E. F. Schlegel.

MINISTERS GATHER

The Pickaway-co Ministers' Association met Thursday at 10:30 a. m., at the Methodist Episcopal church with a good attendance.

Attention was called to the anniversary of prohibition on January 16 and to the Washington Bi-Centennial celebration.

Rev. C. H. Eichinger gave a thoughtful book review of Basil Matthew's, "The Clash of World Forces."

The group enjoyed luncheon at the noon hour.

ACTIVITIES OF C. C. SHOWN IN YEAR'S REPORT

Mack Parrett Jr., Secretary Writes Complete Resume' Of 1931

LAUDS DIRECTORS

Many Accomplishments Made Here In Year

An interesting resume' covering the activities of the Circleville Chamber of Commerce during the past year has been compiled by Mack Parrett Jr., the Chamber's secretary.

The report, written by Mr. Parrett, follows:

BUSINESS INTERESTS

An effort was made to secure a transfer switch from the C.&O. R. R. and it was also asked to establish a freight station but the report came back to the chairman, T. O. Gilliland, that the Company was not ready to make such improvements for a little while yet.

An attempt was made to put an end to so-called unethical advertising by churches and schools conducted by outside enterprises. We devoted March 24th meeting for that purpose and had as our speakers Rev. Toensmeier, J. R. Noecker and C. R. Barnhart, representing church, business-men and schools respectively. The resolution was requested. (Continued on Page Two)

Charity, Friday, was to receive the proceeds of the annual Mistletoe dance held at the Elks hall under the auspices of a group of Circleville's young women. A check for $68.36 was to be turned over to the Benevolent association.

Several factors contributed to the success of the dance. The Elks reduced their rate for the hall, and Hanley's tearoom, the orchestra, Fitzpatrick's, Hamilton's store and Pete Justus are all thanked by the committee.

Dr. Frederick Eberson (above), of the Mount Zion Hospital, San Francisco, told the assembled savants that he has succeeded in the cultivation and isolation of the dreaded infantile paralysis germ. The discovery will be of incalculable assistance in combating the disease.

NEW SCHOOL BOY 'RACKET' HALTED HERE

Practice Of Youths Taking Others Into Coun Stopped By Official

SEVERAL HURT 'Prank' Might Have To Much Trouble

A new 'racket' in which a ber of high school boys have been taking part has been aired in past few days by school of boys who have been conducting an investigation of the affair.

As a result of the investigation it is expected several youths undergo rigid discipline.

The story goes that several of the 'brighter' of the high youths have been literally 'hiding' fellow students, taking into the rural areas surrounding the city, forcing them into automobiles and leaving them to reach their homes the best they can.

BECOME BOUGH

In several of the instances been learned rough methods been used to such an extent the clothing of some of the 'black-eyes' and blooded noses been no rare occurrence.

The alleged 'parties' commenced this week when one of the youths, a member of the school basketball squad, was so that he will probably be able to take part in the scheduled games this week.

It was understood that he was one of the boys who part in one of the so-called 'parties' and the 'abducted' turned tables a few days later by his fists to advantage.

TAKEN INTO COUNTRY

Some of the boys have been taken into automobiles by school-mates sometimes as a as four or five in the automobiles taken into the country and left out of the cars. Some have resisted but their efforts have to no avail against superior bers. At least one youth known to have been taken as miles from the city on the Wa creek-pk late one evening and tially unclothed. Fortunately was 'picked up' by an acquaintance who retrieved his clothing and on a fence along the highway.

What may be the consequences the escapades is not known though school officials should commended for putting a lid this practice as soon as the reached their ears.

OHIO CHAMBER OF COMMERCE ENDORSES CUT IN EXPENSES

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 8.—The further cut of 15 per cent in State Government expenditures, other than for education, as announced recently by Governor George White is in keeping both with the added decline in commodity prices since the state general appropriation bill was passed, and is also in keeping with cuts being made in federal government expenditures for practically everything except World War Veterans' administration, according to a bulletin just being sent to all members of the Ohio Chamber of Commerce by George B. Chandler, executive secretary.

Much credit is given in the bulletin to the State Board of Control for its cooperation with Governor White in his program of economy. Howard L. Bevis is the Governor's personal representative on the Board of Control. Other members are Joseph T. Tracy, Auditor of State; Gilbert Bettman, Attorney General; Robert L. Robe, Chairman of the Senate Finance Committee; and L. P. Mooney, Chairman of the House Finance Committee.

As to cuts in federal appropriations, the Ohio Chamber bulletin says:

"Similar federal trends are reflected in the Hoover budget, which shows a cut in the federal legislative establishments of 20 per cent; in the expenses of the President's office of 9.1 per cent; of 32 federal boards and commissions (outside the Veterans' administration) of 74.4 per cent; in the Department of Agriculture of 20.2 per cent; in the Department of Commerce of 18 per cent; in the Department of the Interior of 17.2 per cent; in the Department of Labor of 2.4 per cent; in the Department of the Navy of 4.8 per cent; in the Post Office Department of 20.5 per cent; in the State Department of 9.7 per cent; in the War Department, including the Panama Canal, of 7.9 per cent; in the District of Columbia of 3.4 per cent.

"Since the Hoover Budget was promulgated, there have been indications from Congress of its intention of making further cuts. This congressional policy has been publicly approved by the President.

The Ohio Chamber of Commerce apparently believes that large federal appropriations for public works will be far more hurtful than helpful in restoring prosperity. The portion of the bulletin referring to such proposals follows:

"Colonel Leonard P. Ayres in his noteworthy address to the Joint Meeting of the American Statistical Association and the American Economic Association, at Washington on December 30, sharply castigated various proposals to spend sums ranging from $2,000,000,000 to $5,000,000,000 in federal projects to relieve unemployment. He pointed out that these work programs would only increase our unproductive possessions and add to our burden of debt. The public and private debts of the United States now represent approximately one-half of our national wealth.

"The primary cause of our present depression is of course the World War, which was financed by mortgaging the future. Since the War, we have indulged in an orgy of public and private debt-incurring expenditures.

"As Colonel Ayres succinctly said, 'WE SQUANDERED OUR WAY INTO THIS DEPRESSION, BUT WE CANNOT SQUANDER OUR WAY OUT OF IT.'

passed by this body, to avoid this class of advertising at it placed an unnecessary burden of expense on the business men.

Clean-up and Paint-up Week was sponsored by the Chamber as usual and through the aid of the newspaper and the city officials the old town brightened up that week.

One of the outstanding meetings of all time for the Chamber was the meeting held in the Episcopal Parish House, April 28th, with John B. Garver of the famous Garver Bros. Store of Strasburg, Ohio, as the speaker of the evening. There were 150 present and all were inspired by the wonderful talk of Mr. Garver. All business and professional men attending were no doubt greatly helped by this splendid meeting and get-together.

The chamber sponsored the first of the Grand Theater's Country Stores in early June. It not only advertised the Chamber of Commerce but was the means of starting a custom by this theater that many citizens have profited by.

Better entrances on East and West Main-st and the Lancaster pike being valuable to the business interests, a concerted effort was made by this body to persuade the Director of State Highway to have these entrances improved but at the time a committee was made up of some of the leading business men, we were unable to get this improvement accomplished. However, the work will soon begin and our committee will be rewarded for its efforts.

The corner decorations for the Christmas season were again sponsored by this body but we were unable to give financial aid so the money for this annual decoration was secured by C. of C. members and the work was done by other members.

COOPERATION SHOWN

The Chamber of Commerce, as is always the custom, was well represented on the Committee for the annual "Ohio History Day" in October, conducted by The Ohio History Day Ass'n. This celebration was again a big success.

A committee from the Fair Bureau and The Chamber of Commerce met with the County Tax Commission early in the year to discuss the matter and determine the best methods for re-appraising the real estate of the county with the idea in mind of reduction in values as the main issue before them. Results were accomplished at a very small cost as you are aware and the Chamber of Commerce should have their full share of credit for this accomplishment thru their co-operation with other organizations.

The president, T. O. Gilliland, was master of ceremonies at the tree planting services, in conjunction with the local chapter of The Daughters of The American Revolution, at the Berger Hospital early this winter.

We co-operated with the Boy Scout committees by devoting a meeting to their worthy cause on the evening of Feb. 17th and the speaker of the evening was C. E. Shriner of Columbus, a Scout Leader of the Department of the State of Ohio.

More interest was shown in the 1931 Pumpkin Show for it's success by the Chamber than in past years and the Sept. 29th meeting was entirely devoted to that cause. The chairman of every department were guest of the Chamber that evening and the entire meeting was turned over to them with the president of The Pumpkin Show Society, Mayor B. T. Hedges as chairman in charge. An enthusiastic meeting was held with many inspiring talks by the Pumpkin Show President, Directors and Chairmen. It evidently had a constructive effect as all the reports as to the success of the 1931 Show were favorable.

Another meeting was devoted to the discussion of the new Tax Laws now in effect. The County Auditor's Office was represented by the Auditor and his Deputy T. D. Krinn who made the talk and led the discussion.

TRAFFIC TRANSPORTATION

An effort was made by the Directors and a resolution was passed requesting City Council to pass an ordinance for limited parking of automobiles in the business district in order to make room to park customers machines during the business hours of the day, but Council voted it down.

On March 22nd Mr. Jeffries, Chairman of the committee to persuade the County Commissioners to resurface the Stoutsville Pike, reported that in due time the work would be done. Mr. Brehmer was asked to get up a petition and circulate it among the taxpayers of Circleville and the abutting property owners along the pike for this improvement. The committee was rewarded for its efforts, the road is improved, business has prospered by it and the traveling public is well pleased, thanks to the good work of this committee.

There were no more traffic or transportation problems that came before this body other than the ones mentioned above this year, but it is hoped that Council will see fit to enact legislation that will help the merchants to better serve his customers by giving them a place to park their machines in the business district.

LEGISLATION

Since this organization is a member of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, it is asked from time to time to vote on all referendums submitted to its members. There were two referendums submitted to this body this year but as the matters involved were of little importance to us locally and were so complicated that they were not clearly understood, it was deemed advisable by the Board of Directors to pass them by.

Several invitations were extended to this Chamber to attend different meetings in Columbus conducted by The Ohio Chamber of Commerce, relative to the last State Legislature, but it seemed impossible to find any interested persons that were available at the time to attend any of these meetings.

EDUCATIONAL

It is difficult to state the results of any educational work carried on by this Chamber. We have had an opportunity to hear many important subjects discussed at our meetings and they no doubt have left their good impressions upon the minds of the members. Thru the Veterans of Foreign Wars organization we secured large copies of The Declaration of Independence. The Constitution of the United States and Lincoln's famous Gettysburg address. One each of these copies was framed and a set was presented to The Circleville High School and also The Public Library to hang on their walls in order to stimulate patriotism among the school children.

Under this heading we should mention the fact that this Chamber had the sign pointing to the famous Logan Farm reported so that the traveler over Route No. 27 can easily find the right road to this historical site.

The night of Jan. 20th was devoted to our High School men and the Superintendent and his assistant. The question discussed was "How Can the C. of C. Help the School?" and "How Can the Schools Help the C. of C.?" The talks were given by the High School Teachers and Superintendent and were very inspiring as well as enjoyable. The Chamber of Commerce is ever ready to further education in Circleville and vicinity.

INDUSTRY

Under this heading there is much to say but I will be brief for the lack of time and space. The Midwest Farm Equipment Co. was induced to locate here thru the efforts of this body and also the formation of The Circleville Industrial Co. was accomplished this year. The Midwest Farm Equipment Co. of which you all know a great deal, is a thriving little manufacturing plant of Belter Tillage Tools which are a great boon to the farmers and which we hope will make Circleville well known all over the United States. The Company is progressing along conservative lines and bid fair to become a large prosperous industry thru its efficient management by its very capable president and general manager Harry F. Carr.

Thru the untiring efforts of one of our Directors, T. F. Jeffries, and thru his excellent foresight and unselfish public spirit, The Circleville Industrial Co. was incorporated and formed for the purpose of owning real estate on which to build factories that might want to locate in our city. Mr. Jeffries was able to obtain more than six acres of land and a good substantial bank building from the abandoned The Scioto Valley Railway and Power Co. for a body sales. It was by owning this real estate and building that it was possible to locate The Midwest Farm Equipment Co. in Circleville.

Negotiations are now under way to get more factories and it is hoped that in the very near future there will be several more good little plants operating in our town. The Chamber of Commerce owns the controlling stock in The Circleville Industrial Co. and it will always control the policies and actions of this company that was formed for the promotion of Circleville industrially.

The Ornamental Bronze Mfg. Co. of Lancaster was seeking a new location but asked for too much capital to be considered. The Midwest Counter and Shant Co. of Cincinnati are contemplating locating a factory in Circleville, altho they are not asking for money to finance their plant they want a new factory building which we will have to furnish if we want to locate them. The Directors have a standing invitation to go to their plant in Cincinnati to investigate.

Circleville industrially has taken rapid strides this past year in securing large factory sites and locating one factory, the Chamber of Commerce has accomplished much and with the cooperation of its members will accomplish more if the proper support of the business men is given willingly.

DONATIONS CONTRIBUTIONS

The Chamber of Commerce has been very generous with its rooms. It has been called upon for their use by a great many organizations in Circleville who are always granted the use of these quarters. Of course you know that the Red Cross has used these rooms for a number of years without any cost whatever. They have held their meetings here and this has been their headquarters. The worthy Boy Scout movement has made use of the rooms on many occasions. The local chapter of the Aeronautical Ass'n. have always had free access to these rooms and have made very good use of them. The Business and Professional Women Club, for a small compensation, have enjoyed these comfortable quarters with their regular meetings and frequent banquets. In fact no organization in Circleville, worthy of recognition, has been refused the use of the Chamber of Commerce rooms for their meetings.

Money donations by the Chamber were not so frequent due to the fact that the Chamber purchased $1200 worth of stock in the new Circleville Industrial Co. in order to hold the controlling interest and to also secure the factory sites for Circleville at a bargain price. However a tree was donated to the Berger Hospital and was planted there this fall. Of course the repainting of the Logan Elm sign was a worthy donation to a good cause. Ten dollars was donated for flowers for a deceased member and $27.57

What's New in the New Chevrolet Six

When you read what's new in the new Chevrolet Six, you, too, will agree it's the Great American Value for 1932.

It is the only low-priced car to offer both Synchro-Mesh and Free Wheeling in combination. It has engine and chassis improvements that raise performance to new heights of power, speed and smoothness. It provides the finest Fisher Bodies Chevrolet has ever introduced. And it maintains the same factors of dependability and economy that have won the approval of millions of Chevrolet owners.

All that has proved to be sound and dependable in the past, plus all the new advancements given below—at one of the lowest prices in the market! That's why the new Chevrolet Six is the Great American Value for 1932!

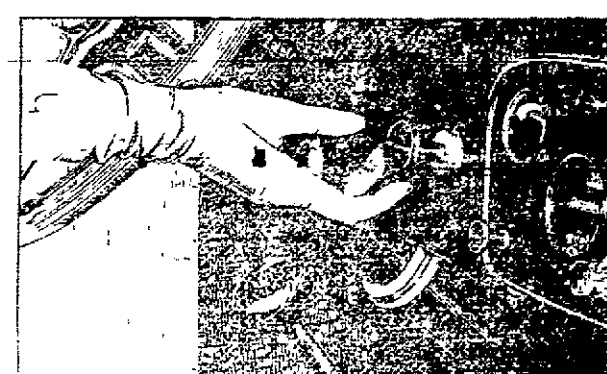

Silent Synchro-Mesh Transmission

This well-known feature of high-priced cars is the finest type of transmission ever developed. In the new Chevrolet Six, it brings a new type of handling ease and control to the low-price field. Synchro-Mesh permits you to shift gears with marvelous quickness, quietness and ease. As a safety factor, it is especially valuable. For it enables you to shift rapidly from high back into second, any time you want to use the engine as a brake.

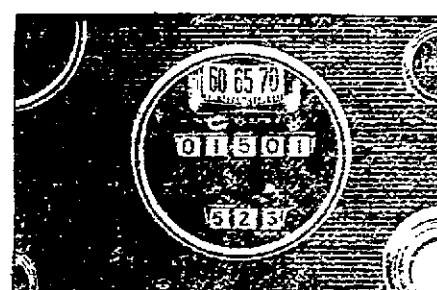

A Smoother, Improved Six-Cylinder Engine

New experiences await you in the Chevrolet Six—new thrills in power, pick-up, smoothness and speed. For Chevrolet has introduced many new engine-features that increase power 20 per cent to 60 horsepower, and make Chevrolet's built-in six-cylinder smoothness even smoother. These features include down-draft carburetion, a new cylinder head, new manifold, a counter-balanced crankshaft and rubber engine mountings.

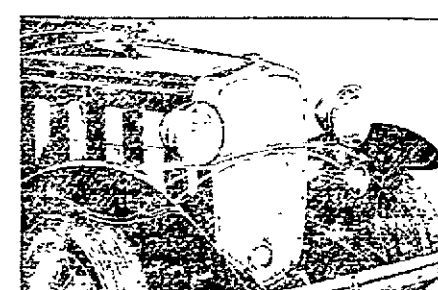

Simplified Free Wheeling

Chevrolet's Free Wheeling mechanism is a new and advanced type that is extremely simple in construction. You may take advantage of its thrills whenever you want to, by simply pressing a button on the dash. Thereafter, and until you pull the button out again you are "in" Free Wheeling. You coast along in momentum every time your foot is off the accelerator. And you can shift with magical simplicity and ease.

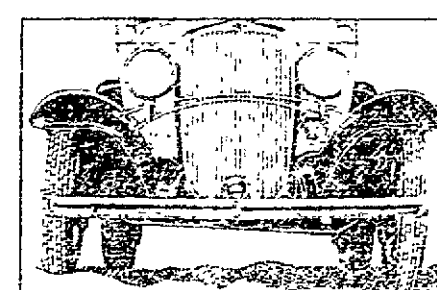

65 to 70 Miles an Hour with Faster Acceleration

Vital new features introduced into Chevrolet's six-cylinder engine enable it to develop 65 to 70 miles an hour with astonishing ease, stability and smoothness. And stop-when-it-stops in an acceleration from 0 to 25 miles in 6.7 seconds.

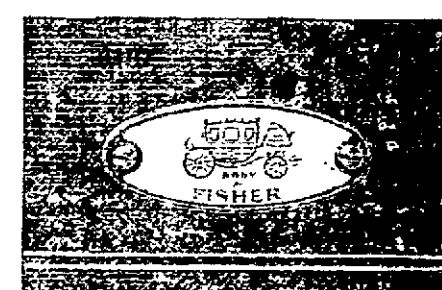

Distinctive New Front-End Appearance

The new chromium-plated elliptical radiator, built-in radiator grille, double-tiered, trumpet-type horn, and bullet-type headlamps form a forward emphasis of strong beauty, enhanced by new rectangular, adjustable hood-ports.

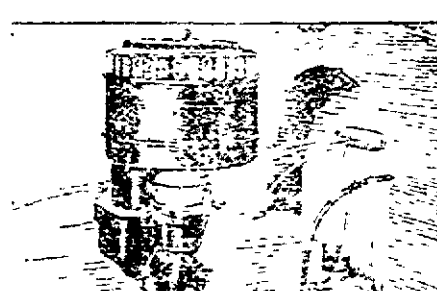

Stabilized Front-End Mounting

An ingenious method of mounting front fenders, lamps, double-tiered radiator securely to the frame—a method exclusive to Chevrolet—stabilizes the whole front-end assembly and insures steadiness when riding over rough roads.

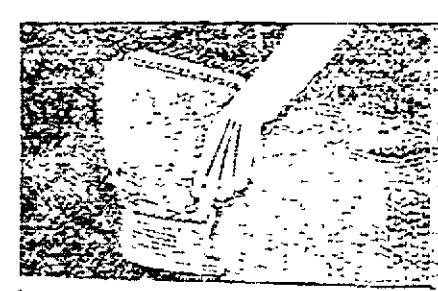

Smart New Fisher Bodies

Chevrolet's new Fisher bodies are the smartest bodies ever to appear in a low-price field. Moreover, Fisher craftsmen have added many new elements of strength, quietness and solidity to the well-analyzed construction. Greater vision is provided for all occupants.

Down-Draft Carburetion

Down-draft carburetion is a feature of high-priced cars. It permits the engine to draw in the purest air, and thus gives the engine the most efficient combustion. This results in greater power, speed and smoothness.

Finger-Touch Front Seat

The finger-touch front seat is a feature of high-priced cars. It permits the driver to adjust the seat to his own comfort with a simple touch of his finger.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE— WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and tired and the old bile punk, don't swallow a dose of calomel, or any other harsh medicine. Calomel is a poison, and it will do you more harm than good. It will irritate your stomach and bowels, and it will make you feel worse than you do now.

It takes three good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get those bile troubles out of your system, and make you feel like a new man. They are a gentle, reliable, vegetable extract, acting when it comes to making the bile flow. But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the wrapper. Beware of substitutes. Get all stores. © 1931 C. M. Co.

Burke Is Named As Master Mind

CHICAGO, Jan. 8.—Negotiable securities stolen from five banks and valued at more than $1,000,000, will soon be recovered, "Secret six" agents revealed here today.

Bonds valued at $583,000, stolen from the Lincoln (Neb.) National Bank & Trust company in a $3,000,000 holdup in 1930, were recovered this week.

Alexander Jamie, chief investigator of the Secret Six, stated today that the recovery of the bonds was the result of the discovery of a bank-robbing syndicate with 150 members scattered throughout the United States.

According to Jamie the syndicate is controlled "by a master mind, a socially prominent business man, with connections for the disposal of all types of securities."

"The loot of the syndicate has probably approached $10,000,000 in the last decade," Jamie said.

Jamie denied that he knew the identity of the master mind, thought by some to have been Fred "Killer" Burke, notorious bank robber who is serving a life sentence in Michigan for the murder of a St. Joseph policeman.

According to Sgt. Roy Steffens of the staff of the crime fighting body, the trail of the bandit gang was discovered during investigation of the St. Valentine's Day massacre of 1929 in which seven gangsters were slaughtered. Burke was thought to have been a member of the murder gang and was subject of a nation-wide search.

According to members of the Secret Six, the activities of the bank robbing syndicate are widespread. Headquarters have been established in Chicago, New York, Kansas City, Omaha, Philadelphia, Brooklyn, Los Angeles and East St. Louis, Ill.

Jamie said today that the mysterious "master mind" of the organization would be captured by the Secret Six operatives and its promised further arrests in the Lincoln bank robbery case. Two of the participants are now serving 25-year terms.

Gus Winkler, Capone hoodlum, was indicted as a member of the Lincoln bandit gang, but established an alibi after promising to see that the bonds were returned.

NEW OFFICERS GIVE GROUP'S PROGRAM

The brotherhood of the Lutheran church held its first meeting of the new year Thursday evening under the new president, Karl J. Herrmann.

After a short business meeting, oyster soup was served by the outgoing officers, headed by J. R. Noecker, last year's president. After a short social session the new officers furnished the program.

Karl Herrmann spoke on "The Newspaper"; Christian Schwarz, secretary, gave a violin and vocal rendition of "Love's Old Sweet Song"; Carl Seitz at the piano; George C. Griffith, corresponding secretary, for his part, used the program that had won the contest at the Luther League watch party with Marion Sensesbrenner giving a humorous talk on "Most Anything, Mostly Food," and Charles L. Mack and George Griffith giving an imitation of "Sisters of the Skillet."

Christian Schwarz gave another violin and vocal selection, "When the Moon Comes Over the Mountain." Charles Fellers, new treasurer, was excused on account of this new financial burden and Ed Sensesbrenner, vice president, gave another of his inimitable papers, "Something."

Music by the entire brotherhood was one of the features of the meeting.

The next meeting will be held Jan. 21 with the judges of the Contest of the Ages last spring furnishing the program. They are S. T. Rife, Ed Daley, George McDowell, Wylie Fetherlin and Ferd M. Pickens.

This is a very fast and beautiful presentation carrying beautiful scenery, lighting effects and the girls all appear in gorgeous costumes.

Scientifically Purer..

Something every smoker wants to know!

Absolutely pure... that's what you expect in the things you eat and drink... and in the cigarettes you smoke.

"Chesterfields are as pure as the water you drink," a noted scientist writes. There's no way to make a purer cigarette.

Starting with tobaccos... the ripest, finest, purest leaf that grows is selected for Chesterfields. Mild to start with... Cross-Blending makes it milder still. Then it's wrapped in paper that is so pure it burns without any taste or odor.

The phrase "Scientifically Purer" is entirely justified. By our use of a highly scientific process which was worked out by Dr. Paul Gross, the Head Chemist of our Research Department, Chesterfield reaches a state of purity unmatched to our knowledge, by any other cigarette.

In addition, scientists check every ingredient, every method. Even the factory air is washed, and changed every 4 1/2 minutes. More purity!

Healthy

AMONG the distressing consequences of other depressions and panics was a decided increase in disease and the death rate. People weakened by undernourishment and suffering from exposure fall easy prey to disease, and though there may have been few deaths due directly to starvation lack of adequate food, clothing and shelter was responsible for an appalling toll of lives.

The present depression is exacting no such terrible price. The year 1930 broke all preceding public-health records in the United States and 1931 equaled it if not better, that proud record. There has been less disease and the mortality rate has dropped.

President Hoover a year ago pointed out as an encouraging feature of the economic dislocation the improvement in the public health. He recognized in it evidence that there was no actual starvation or exposure and that the medical needs of the unemployed were being met by doctors, hospitals and welfare agencies.

For the absence of serious epidemics, lessened disease and lower mortality rate society is indebted, of course, to medical science, more competent physicians and surgeons, and a more efficacious public health service. These have not broken down under the depression.

Here is the best answer to the short-sighted cry that the American economic system has broken down and must be radically altered. It is not a perfect system, but where is there another that has carried a great nation through perilous times with so little suffering and hardship?

Armaments

UNIVERSITY and college students in the United States are not pacifists, neither are they militarists. They are for preparation to the point of safety and for disarmament down to the absolute minimum demanded by the requirements of adequate national defense.

This is illustrated by a poll of the students at a number of representative institutions. At Yale only 107 voted for continued heavy armaments; 1,669 favored moderate armament, 987 were for complete disarmament. Some would have the United States disarm first, others of the action of other nations.

Dartmouth's poll was 76 for heavy armament, 226 for a 50 percent arms cut and 359 for total disarmament. These figures are representative of the results obtained everywhere.

The student mind is not mature but it is probably better informed in international matters than the average man on the street and certainly can think more clearly than the non-scholastic mind of the same age.

This poll is important not because it will carry much weight in contemporary world affairs but because it reveals a trend away from competitive armaments and if that is true in the United States it must be true in the other civilized countries of the world.

Real disarmament and its handmaiden, world peace will come only when world leaders and the popular majority abandon the old theory that might makes right and international disputes can only be settled by force of arms.

Nitrate

SODIUM nitrate the cause and force of war can also be a sign of peace. It figures in an international agreement of recent signing in such a way as to indicate peace conditions of the future.

A Franco-German pact whereby Germany is to deliver 20,000 tons of sodium nitrate to her traditional enemy, France, hardly supports the claim of disarmament of foreign powers and corresponds placing all Europe dangerously near the powder house.

West Germany planning to make war on France or France invading from France, one would not expect France to deliver sodium nitrate to Germany. When the world is divided into sodium nitrate and non-sodium nitrate countries, the world is divided into war and peace.

The sodium nitrate is the most important of the world's minerals. It is the only one that is not found in the United States. It is the only one that is not found in the United States. It is the only one that is not found in the United States.

The CZARINA'S RUBIES

CHAPTER LVII

That second anonymous letter written as they knew now by Ilisham, had dropped an odd hint. That he had found the reason why his enemies had decided that Severn knew too much, had become dangerous to their safety.

And Ilisham had feared that these men might try to have a way cleared secretly to their door—no doubt to hide or remove something the vaults contained, make a danger-spot safe for themselves, whatever its secret could be, before the police could investigate.

CAPTURED

That thought suddenly suggested another. Had Ilisham whilst watching in the grounds been discovered and captured? Had perhaps never returned to his cottage at all—though the place had evidently been searched by his enemies? Certainly it seemed as if his planned coup had miscarried.

And had Ilisham's fear been realized? Had these men already got that underground door cleared and opened?

"Think I'll go and have a look for myself," Bill decided, some little time after Jim and Webber had departed.

He walked over to Beggar's Court, entering the grounds by the side gate, and made his way round by the ruins. His first glance inside was reassuring. The sunlit flight of steps leading down to that door was still as he had seen it last, choked with great blocks of fallen masonry. Bill was conscious of a sense of relief as he walked on to the house.

Martin opened the door to him. The man seemed jumpy, all nerves, as Bill noticed.

"Yes, Mr. Sant is in, sir. He didn't go up to town today."

Just then Sant appeared in the hall.

"Hello, Grayson."

Sant was looking worried and haggard. His attempt at the old breezy manner seemed forced.

"Thought I'd just look in to ask if you'd heard the latest news," Bill said casually.

"No. What's that, my dear fellow? I've heard nothing, nothing whatever."

Sant tried to speak carelessly, but his manner gave him away. Like Martin, he was palpably all on edge.

"Well, rather a disturbing thing happened whilst Wynter and I were here last night. Two men broke into Manorways and frightened my wife and Miss Faring."

"Good Lord, Grayson! No. I hadn't heard a thing about it, and I'm very sorry to hear it now. Burglars, of course? I hope they were caught?"

"No, got away—luckily with nothing of value. Not the only queer thing that happened in the village last night. Apparently Ilisham's disappearance, all the signs of a struggle in his cottage, his papers ransacked. Looks as if he'd been attacked and killed."

Sant had given a palpable start.

"Kidnaped? Incredible! I can't believe it, Grayson," he cried.

His face was a picture of startled amazement. An uncommonly good actor, Sant, as reflected drily, one could almost have believed from his expression that Sant had heard of Ilisham's disappearance for the first time now.

"Ask the police," returned Bill.

with a shrug "they're at his place now. It's like Severn's case over again—and probably the same gang."

Bill did not stay more than ten minutes. Martin was in the hall as he busy on household duties, as he and Sant passed out the man came quickly forward to give the departing visitor his hat. And as he did so a sudden instinct told Bill that for some reason Martin was desperately anxious to attract his attention unseen by Sant.

Quite unexpectedly an opportunity came. There was the sound of car wheels in the drive and Sant crossed to the window of the hall to glance out. Martin moved close to Bill and only the latter caught the nervous, almost inaudible whisper:

"Look inside your hat when you have gone."

(With an almost imperceptible nod, Bill walked to the door.

"Well, good morning, Sant."

On the doorstep he met Martell, who had just got down from his car. Under pretext of being in a hurry Bill only exchanged a passing greeting and walked quickly up the drive.

"Look inside your hat!"

But not until he was out of range of the windows did Bill follow this curious injunction. Tucked inside the leather band was a scrap of paper on which these words were written:

"They're having the steps leading to the door of the vaults cleared to-night about 9, when they mean to destroy all evidence before the police can get their noses in."

Evidently Martin in his eagerness to save his own skin had gone over wholeheartedly to the other side.

This was important news. News to be telephoned to Haste, that the inspector might come prepared to cope with the situation.

About 4 o'clock that afternoon Haste turned up in Jim's car. A second car brought a couple of plain clothes men and Webber.

"As we passed through Trayne I called to see the police superintendent there—of course, I'm trespassing on his territory!" Haste told Bill with a laugh. "But I've made it all right with him."

He gave some instructions to his two subordinates, who went off with Webber.

TRAP

"Very useful information you had from this chap Martin, about that underground door. We shall let them go to the trouble of opening it—and then come on the scene!" Haste explained with a laugh.

Meanwhile his men would keep the place under observation as soon as it was dark, to give warning should operations commence earlier than expected.

"That letter from Ilisham which the assistant commissioner handed to me," Haste said as they went indoors, "contains more than enough to have justified our having that door opened—and this apparent kidnapping of him would certainly have decided us to do so in any case. However, they're saving us that trouble, and he's told us quite a lot about Martell, too, only under another name, a chap we've wanted. Well, I won't go into that now—but we aren't too proud to hand it to Ilisham for a pretty useful bit of work. And I only hope no harm's come to him."

"But that door in the vaults—"

"What's behind it?" cried Bill. "What is it they're so desperately keen to hide?"

"Cocaine," said Haste. "If Ilisham's right he's run to earth at it busy on household duties, as he and Sant passed out the man came quickly forward to give the departing visitor his hat. And as he did so a sudden instinct told Bill that for some reason Martin was desperately anxious to attract his attention unseen by Sant."

So that was the guarded secret behind that door—cocaine! Dope picked up at sea a few miles out from vessels engaged in this illicit traffic and run up the estuary in the fast motor boat to Beggar's Court.

It must have been this ugly secret that Frank Severn, on his unexpected return home, had stumbled upon—knowledge too dangerous for the safety of these men.

Inspector Haste, Jim and Bill Grayson sat in the boathouse at the bottom of the garden at Manorways as 6 o'clock approached, waiting for Martin, who was to come up by water from Beggar's Court. He was to bring them news of Severn. Would he also be able to give them a clue by which the missing man Ilisham might be traced? They were anxious about Ilisham.

Haste had told them a good deal about John Ilisham.

"American secret service. Came to England six or seven weeks ago when he presented his credentials at Scotland Yard," Haste said. "Explained he was over here to trace a man believed to be in England whom the New York police wanted badly."

"Martell, of course."

Haste nodded.

"Martell and as we know now he's a man Scotland Yard's been wanting for a long time under another name. Of course, as is customary in such a case, we've had placed any assistance necessary at his disposal, but Ilisham was damned independent. Preferred to work on his own. Said he'd trace his man first get all the necessary evidence, before calling us in."

And Haste shrugged his shoulders.

"If he hadn't been so keen on playing a lone hand, maybe he wouldn't have been in the soup now!" he added. "I fancy some personal feeling entered into it, some private deadly grudge against this man, Martell, that made him keep to do the thing off his own bat. We didn't know how nearly through he was with his job or that he'd been traced by his man until that letter of his today with enough in it for us to have acted on even without what you've heard from you gentlemen."

What Haste had told them explained much that had puzzled them. But one thing still puzzled Bill.

"But I'll swear I saw this man Ilisham in Sing Sing within the past year—and I was told then he was in for life."

Inspector Haste laughed.

EXPLANATION

"Oh, you saw him in Sing Sing (right enough) that was all arranged. It was necessary Ilisham should get in touch unsuspected with certain lags there who knew something and who wouldn't mind opening their mouths to a fellow lag—silly! It was the evidence Ilisham got in Sing Sing that put him on the trail of Martell in England."

A distant church clock began to strike six.

AT THE CLIFTONA

JOHN GILBERT is starred in "West of Broadway," Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's latest offering which will open today at the Cliftona Theatre.

The new Gilbert picture is of particular interest because it marks another trail in the star's increasing popularity. A role reminiscent of "The Big Parade" and "Destiny," Gilbert, as his first appearance under the masterful direction of Harry Beaumont, pioneer in silent and sound production.

Gilbert's recent travails in "West of Broadway" are the Phantom of Paris, a character which is first to take in the sound medium and the characterization in the new feature is said by preview critics to be the best of his efforts to date. The picture was screened in the picture country and dealers range lands, offering magnificent values of the expansive West where romance is a life blood.

Care of Skin and Proper Diet May Banish Pimples

Untold Mental Anxiety Caused by Acne. Which Arises from Various Causes, and Which in Some Cases Resists All Treatment

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
United States Senator from New York.
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

BLEMISHES of the skin, not so serious as many other afflictions, cause untold mental anxiety. Pimples are often difficult to get rid of and at times resist all treatment.

Pimples, or acne, as this disease of the skin is called, is a condition influenced by many factors. It is not a "blood" condition, nor is it due to fast living. Not always can it be attributed to improper food, but improper food, lack of exercise, lack of fresh air and lack of fresh vegetables and fruit must be considered as related to this condition.

The diet deserves special mention. Individuals who are prone to pimples should eat a diet of fresh fruits and vegetables, and avoid rich, fatty, and sugary foods. The diet should be simple and abundant in fresh fruits and vegetables.

It is important to keep the skin clean and free from dirt. The face should be washed with cold water, and the skin should be kept moist. The use of a good skin cream is also important.

GETTING VARIETY IN THE LOW-COST MENU

How to buy with a small food budget is one problem. How to plan good meals out of what you buy is another and perhaps a harder problem. Even the housewife with unlimited choice must give some thought to her menu if she would have them interesting as well as wholesome. To get variety within the low-cost budget, the Bureau of Home Economics points out, is a very much stiffer challenge to any housewife's ingenuity, as well as to her skill at cookery. She must buy cheap foods and she must try to make more interesting than usual, for palatable meals attractively served are a powerful stimulant to the spirits.
Barely to meet the body needs, then, the bureau insists, is not enough. Something must be counted in to make the cheap meal taste good. This week, accordingly, the bureau suggests a new set of menus—seven dinner menus planned within the low-cost weekly food supply suggested for a family of five. Several of these dinners are planned to have enough of the main dish left over for next day's lunch, or supper, as the case may be. Most of these dinner menus were planned without salads, with the thought that salads would be used to much lunches or suppers more appetizing.

The first two of the menus are for oven dinners, and if the oven is big enough, the bureau points out, could be cooked the same day, with the same fire. By using cheap cuts, meat can be squeezed out of the budget for every day but one, and that day a half-pound of fish is used in a chowder. One of those days, to be sure, the meat is a half-pound of salt pork. But salt pork baked with beans provides a very substantial and nourishing dish.

The recipes for this week's menu have been adapted from publications of the bureau, such as Leaflet No. 81-L, entitled "Cooking Cured Pork," and "Aunt Sammy's Radio Recipes Revised." WEEKLY LOW COST SUPPLY FOR A FAMILY OF FIVE Including two adults and three children

The frail prophet of Mother India was greeted by a riot between his supporters and opponents, in which 25 people were injured. Shortly after his arrival Gandhi was imprisoned once more in Poona Jail, from which place he is directing a new campaign of civil disobedience, which the British are putting down with stringent methods.

RECIPES

Roast Stuffed Cured Shoulder

Have a cured pork shoulder skinned and boned. Wash the shoulder and soak it over night in cold water to cover. On removing the piece from the water wipe it dry. Lay the shoulder fat side down, pile in some of the hot stuffing, begin to sew the edges of the shoulder together to form a pocket, and gradually work in the rest of the stuffing. For the stuffing mix 1 cup of brown sugar and 3 cups of fine soft bread crumbs, 1 teaspoon of prepared mustard, and just enough vinegar to moisten. Add 1 teaspoon of ground cloves and 2 teaspoons of cinnamon. Lay the stuffed shoulder, fat side up, on a rack in an open roasting pan without water. Roast the meat at very moderate heat until it is tender when pierced with a skewer or a fork. A 4 to 5 pound picnic shoulder will require about 3 1/2 hours to cook at this even temperature.

Baked Indian Pudding

1 quart milk.
1-3 cup yellow cornmeal.
1 teaspoon salt.
1-2 cup molasses.
1-2 to 1 teaspoon ginger.
Cook the milk, cornmeal and salt in a double boiler for 20 minutes. Add the molasses and ginger, pour into a greased baking dish, and bake in a very moderate oven for 2 hours.
Apple Brown Betty
2 quarts diced tart apples.
1 quart dried bread crumbs (oven toasted until crisp and light brown).
1-4 cups sugar.
1 teaspoon cinnamon.
1-4 teaspoon salt.

1-4 cup melted butter, margarine or other fat.
Grease a baking dish and place in it a layer of crumbs, then a layer of apples, and some of the sugar, cinnamon, and salt, which have been mixed together. Repeat until all the ingredients are used, saving sufficient crumbs to cover, and bake for 30 to 45 minutes, or until the apples are soft. Toward the last remove the cover and allow the top to brown. Serve with (or without) top milk or sauce.

Steamed Apricot Pudding

1-2 pound dried apricots.
1 1-2 cups sifted soft-wheat flour.
1-2 cup suet.
1-2 cup sugar.
1 egg.
2 teaspoons baking powder.
1-4 teaspoon salt.
1-2 cup milk.
Wash the apricots, chop fine, and mix with 2 tablespoons of the flour. Sift the remaining flour with the baking powder and salt. Cream the fat, add the sugar, and well beaten eggs, and add alternately with the milk to the sifted dry ingredients. Stir in the apricots. Pour into a greased mold, cover, and steam for 2 hours. Serve with vanilla sauce.

Salmon Chowder

2 cups diced potatoes.
1 cup diced carrots.
1 large onion, chopped.
1 quart water.
2 tablespoons flour.
1 pint milk.
1-2 pound canned salmon.
Salt.
Pepper.

Cook the potatoes, carrots, and onion in the water for 15 minutes. Mix the flour with a little cold milk, add to the vegetables and stir. Add the remaining milk, the salmon, season with salt and pepper, and simmer about 10 minutes longer.
Serve over crackers.
Raisin Tapioca Pudding
1-2 cup quick-cooking tapioca.
3 cups boiling water.
1-3 cup sugar.
1-2 teaspoon salt.
Juice and grated rind of 1 lemon.
1 cup raisins.
Add the boiling water to the tapioca and cook in a double boiler for 15 minutes or until the tapioca is clear.
Add the raisins and pour into a greased shallow baking dish. Bake in a moderate oven until the raisins are tender and the top is lightly browned. Serve hot or cold.

This pudding will cost a little less if boiled, instead of baked, after the raisins are added.
Ground Beef Broiled on Toast
1 pound ground raw beef.
8 slices bread.
Butter.
Salt and pepper to taste.
Toast the bread on one side. Butter the untoasted side, spread to the edge with a layer of the ground beef, dot with the butter, and broil under a flame for about 5 minutes. Season with salt and pepper, and serve at once with a garnish of parsley or pickles.

HOTEL PRICES REDUCED
FRANKFORT-ON-MAIN — The Frankfort municipal economic department announces that the city's hotel owners have agreed to keep their prices for the Goethe year 1932 as low as possible, the reduction from the 1931 prices to be roughly 30 per cent. During the great Saengerbund festival, to be held from July 21 to 25, the hotels have promised 30 per cent of their rooms of all classes at 6, 9, 12, and 15 marks per room, including breakfast and service.

LIKE OLD KING MIDAS HE TURNED SAND TO GOLD

NICE.—Emulating old King Midas, Polish Professor Dunikowski of this city, claimed that he converted sand and rock from the Mediterranean shores into gold ingots by subjecting them to electrical treatment and ultra-violet rays.

An experiment, he says, was made in London last year in the presence of English chemical experts, who entered into negotiations with him without success, and later a company was formed in Paris to exploit the process. The ingots were obtained by passing the earth and rock through a secret electrical process and baking the residuum at a high temperature, finally washing it in sulphuric acid and mercury. Professor Dunikowski has been put under arrest at Menton until further explanations are forthcoming.

Bearded Court Team To Play Here Tonight

Club Is Hopeful Of Taking Tilt

The greatest feature of the current basketball season will be introduced at this evening when men with long beards, mysterious in their action, nevertheless adept basketball players, swarm over the court in an effort to defeat the Club tilters. This team is the original House of David aggregation and from advance notices the basketball game should even be better than the attraction the House of David team will prove.

The big feature will follow a preliminary at 7:15 between the Sam Grant Flying Clouds and the Jackson-twp All Stars, comprised of the best basketball players in the western part of the county.

Joe Lynch's C. A. C. squad is in excellent condition and is expected to give a good account of itself. The House of David team, strictly a road club, has shown up well in its long tours this year and is hopeful of adding a victory here.

Indians Control Toledo AA Club

CLEVELAND, O., Jan. 8. With a sharp eye for young talent Billy Evans, business manager of the Cleveland baseball club, of the American League, looked about today for a manager of the Toledo Mud Hens who were leased by the Indians yesterday for one year with provision for an outright purchase at the end of the 1932 campaign.

The Toledo club which was shattered by financial difficulties in the American association, provided the Indians with its only minor league team. While financial terms of the lease were not divulged, Evans and Alva Bradley, Indian president, announced an immediate re-organization of the Mud Hens.

TIGERS PLAY BEXLEY TEAM

Here's the dope on tonight's Central Buckeye League game between Circleville high school Tigers and the Bexley Lions.

PROBABLE LINEUPS

Tigers: M. Davis, C. Purcell, W. Hegele, E. White, P. Stout.

Bexley: E. Beckley, Benjamin Henceroth, Brenning, Stark.

Place: Bexley gymnasium northeast Columbus.

Time: 8:15 p. m.

Preliminary game at 7 p. m.

Coach "Pete" Herberholz is confident of winning his first Central Buckeye League game of the season, even though he might be somewhat handicapped, he said today. Whether or not Pete Stout, a regular guard, and dependable one at that, will be in the lineup is not known. Stout has been out of school the past few days suffering from illness. It was thought he would be able to return to school Friday, but his participation is still a question of doubt.

With a record of three wins out of four games played, the Tigers will enter their first Buckeye League and will probably show what the outlook is for them in C. B. L. standing. According to a Columbus sport writer, Circleville and Westerville appear to be the easy marks this year but will bear much watching. Herberholz hopes to show tonight whether the team wins or loses, that the Tigers will fight and play basketball to the end.

A number of students are expected to attend the contest. Student tickets were obtained from Principal Garhart at the high school here for 25 cents, and the admission will be slightly more at the Circleville Gym.

The Circleville reserves a large in their first game of the season with the Bexley Reserves.

SEEK RECRUITS

A squad of young recruits will support the Toledo colors at the spring training camp in New Orleans where Cleveland will do its early training. Under this arrangement, Evans hopes not only to bolster the Indians but raise the Mud Hens from the cellar position of the American association.

Cleveland's sudden bid ended the financial worries of Toledo which went into receivership late last year. When gate receipts dwindled, players were told in wholesale lots to meet pay rolls. When a bid of $37,500, offered by Hugh Brennan, Chicago business man who formerly was associated with the Milwaukee club, was opposed by Toledo stockholders, it was withdrawn.

Neither Evans nor Bradley would give any indication as to who might succeed Casey Stengel, last years pilot who has signed to coach the Brooklyn Robins. One will be appointed in the near future, they said, for an immediate re-organization of the delapidated club.

CANDIDATE PROMISES MUCH

DETROIT, Mich.—Paul Dennis in announcing his candidacy for Congress from the Thirteenth Michigan District, declared he favored a five billion dollar federal loan, immediate payment of the bonus, repeal of the eighteenth amendment, and the Volstead act, public ownership of public utilities and a law to curb the abuses of police power, especially those of officers enforcing the prohibition law. He is a Democrat.

ZIEGFELD DECORATES CARS

SCRANTON, Pa.—Ziegfeld is decorating Scranton's street cars. The modernistically painted cars which startled patrons with its first appearance here was designed by the noted showman of Folies fame. The city's management announced a "show color" with streamer work in blue describes the first prize decorations. The effect is carried out both on the exterior and the interior.

STATE READY FOR HAWKEYES

Buckeye Face Another Tough Assignment in Western Conference Play

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 8.—Ohio State's basketball team will wind up their final practice tonight for the invasion of the Iowa Hawkeyes at the Coliseum here tomorrow night in the first Conference home game of the season. The contest will be the first Big Ten game for the Corn Huskers.

Ohio fans, who are rather fickle, called the Buckeye quintet the "bunnies" when they won their first three games of the season. Then the Bucks dropped a one-point contest to Vanderbilt, and the fans immediately put "razz" in front of the team's pet name. Last Monday the fighting state crew returned to Champaign and defeated the Illinois five, 29-28, and now the fans are ready to bet their last dime that state will "take" the rest of its games and the long-coveted championship.

SCHEDULE TOUGH

If the Bucks do win the bunting, they will deserve it, for they have as usual, one of the toughest schedules of any team in the Conference. Illinois must be beaten again. And then there are home and home games with Purdue, Northwestern, Iowa, Michigan and Chicago.

State should be able to clear the Iowa and Chicago hurdles without much trouble, but Northwestern last year's champs, Purdue, called the strongest team in the circuit this year and Michigan will probably give the Ohio boys some real opposition.

Tomorrow's game incidentally will be the only at-home game of the Bucks until they battle Michigan Thursday Jan. 28.

The in-home Ohio State will play a return engagement with the Cornhuskers on Jan. 29 and on Saturday, Jan. 31, the Bucks will face Northwestern at Evanston, Ill.

Each team tomorrow night will be made up of the same experienced players, that is one senior, a junior and three sophomores.

Officials for the game will be Otto Strommeyer, referee, and J. J. Molony, umpire.

There were five other survivors who were unable to attend, according to the president of the organization, Frank P. Tyrell, 73. The Haymarket riot has lived through forty-five years of memory. BEHIND the SCENE In HOLLYWOOD

By HARRISON CARROLL

HOLLYWOOD, Cal. — Douglas Fairbanks will let the fans decide whether he is to make any more travogues.

His cue will be the public reception of "Around the World in Eighty Days" which didn't break records in first run houses, but which has been faring very well in the neighborhood theatres. Doug himself is the authority for this.

Run to earth at the studio after a chase over several golf courses, he admitted his South American trip is abandoned for the moment.

"By the time I bought airplanes, gathered equipment and established bases of supplies," he says, "it would cost me as much as a picture made in the studio."

"I'm taking no chances until I see which way the public jumps."

"Whatever I do, though, must have novelty. I've been in the business for 17 years, and must give the public something different."

For the present Doug is more interested in golf. He and Harold Lloyd are practicing to enter the Los Angeles open tournament on Jan. 9. Even the Star Moritz trip is off. It seems Marv can't be persuaded to leave Pickfair until the new wing is completed and the redecorating is finished.

HE CAN'T BE STOPPED

Bill Haines knows all the answers.

I asked him where he is going to live, now that he has rented his house to Talulah Bankhead.

"Oh," he flipped. "I've taken a row of houses in Westwood."

AT LAST IT CAN BE TOLD

The great social problem is how to dispose of worn out razor blades.

Paramount studios destroyed 10,000 of them during the past year.

The blades were used by the wardrobe to cut materials, by film directors to cut film, and, probably, by janitors to scrape the names off doors.

The used blades are put into a giant incinerator, taken with the ashes to a barge at the harbor and dumped to the bottom of the Pacific Ocean several miles from shore.

THEY'LL BE LEAVING SOON

This new year promises to see many changes in studio players.

Winnie Lightner is now making her last picture for Warners. It is called "Love on a Budget."

She has been with the company since "Gold Diggers of Broadway." That was two years ago.

It is possible Charles Butterworth will be leaving Warners, too. He feels no one studio can offer him enough parts calling for his particular kind of comedy.

Over at R-K-O Herbert is leaving soon.

CHANGES EVERYWHERE

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Stein and grandson were six o'clock supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. Cliff Han-

Gibson next to them. Sally complains about no vacation. Several rows down, Aileen Pringle gestures to call my attention to her hair, now back to its original dark shade. She talks gaily to Clark Gable in the next seat. Mrs. Gable looks happy. Norma Talmadge, Natalie, Buster Keaton, Peg Tam-madge down to the right. These little hats on the backs of the girls' heads are cute immaculate.

Lois Wilson with Winslow B. Felix, the automobile man. This is getting to be pretty regular.

New York will be seeing "Lucky Day," I fancy. It's a swell show.

Charles Stein's house caught fire Monday night, about 7:30 o'clock, and did a great deal of damage to the west gable and at the roof kept it from burning through so fast. Mr. Stein had taken down the Christmas tree and burned it in the stove about 5 o'clock. It is thought the blaze was the result. Mrs. Stein discovered it at 7:30 when she and her daughter and granddaughters were in the house. Mrs. Stein opened the stair door at the flames and the smoke came down the stairway. Mrs. Stein grabbed a bucket of water and had the flames under control in a few minutes but they had an awful scare. Mrs. Stein says for no one to burn a Christmas tree in a stove.

John Hitt of Circleville, was a business visitor in our city Tuesday afternoon.

Charged with Attack on White Girls

Nation-wide interest has been aroused by the trial at Scottsboro, Ala., of the nine negroes shown above on a charge of criminally attacking two white girls. Eight of the men were sentenced to death, but the cases have been appealed, it being alleged that the charges against the condemned men were prompted by labor disturbances. Social workers and negro leaders are actively interesting themselves in the appeal, which is scheduled for hearing in the Supreme Court on January 21. At left are the victims of the alleged attack, Virginia Price (left) and Ruby Bates.

Every Blessing," Mrs. J. R. Kirkpatrick spoke of a number of incidents which proved that the Bible, missionary leaflets, and tracts had many times been found to be more precious than gold. She ended her talk with the Evangel, its news, its inspirations and its usefulness to its many readers.

After music, Miss Woolver, as Miss Evangel, spoke of her birth, her editors, temptations, accomplishments and growth. The editorial of the first edition in 1882 was given by Mrs. Eldridge.

Eight new subscriptions were presented the secretary of the Evangel. Miss Woolver and Mrs. Trimmer served refreshments at the close of the meeting.
